What you'll be doing:

As a fully-fledged member of the Product Owner team, after a comprehensive introduction, you will be jointly responsible for the successful delivery of customer projects as part of the software implementation process:

- You'll co-create IT Solutions and value proposition, together with our solution architects, other POs and the customer.
- Make a part of the overall solution (a specific function or a module of the Software) to YOUR thing:
 - o get your own end-to-end responsibility for in-time delivery – from creation of epics and user stories to user acceptance.
 - o manage the Backlog - including creation and prioritization of backlog items according to timelines and project goals
- You'll act as interface between customers, software development, product management and sales
- You bring together information (customer processes, customer requirements, analyses of possible uses of the systems, product information, workshop plans) and design PO content (user stories, process descriptions, etc.).
- You'll provide continuous monitoring of the project's progress, taking into account milestones set, and taking measures in case of deviations.

What you bring to the role / that's you:

- Completed or current studies in the field of IT, innovation and product management or business informatics
- Approx. 1-2 years professional experience as a product owner or in an agile work environment is beneficial.
- Passion about cutting-edge technologies (e.g. IoT, 5G, edge compute and digitalization)
- Affinity for software development is necessary; with online collaboration tools like Jira and Confluence is beneficial.
- You are a strong communicator, have eloquent expression (oral and written) in English, German is an advantage.
- You don't wait for instructions or predetermined structures, but proactively seek them out.
- You are curious, willing to learn, keen to find new ways and stick to topics.
- You have a high degree of self-responsibility, work conscientiously while you are managing complex tasks.
- You recognize connections, try to understand your counterpart and develop solutions from them.
- Change is the only constant: you like a dynamic environment.

What's in it for you:

- Beyond Now Benefits:

- Professional development guaranteed: Once you have gained experience, you can take over entire projects.
- Creative freedom: Learn from the community of practice and contribute the knowledge you have gained. In this way, you shape delivery projects and the working methods of tomorrow.
