Graz (AUT) hybrid | Full-time (38,5h/week) | Immediate Start

What you'll be doing:

Join our agile engineering and consulting team to deliver cutting-edge solutions that enhance operations for Tier 1 telecom and tech giants worldwide as they pursue digital transformation. In this strategic interdisciplinary role, you'll mainly...

- contribute to product discovery and delivery activities, from concept to rollout (end-to-end product lifecycle support – invent and bring products to market that solve real customer problems)
- gather user, market, and stakeholder feedback to refine product direction – evaluate the impact and help making decisions (balance customer appeal with practical feasibility—always assess what exists, what's new, and what sets us apart).
- assist in connecting business needs with technical solutions and convince customers why it's worth trying new features
- work on specific solution areas such as digital commerce, customer portals, or monetization tools
- manage and prioritize the product backlog under guidance, support product documentation and user story creation
- Collaborate with awesome cross-functional teams including engineering, UX, and QA to learn best practices.
- independently advise (laterally lead) people, align them with a common goal and yell at logs, while you don't mind wearing multiple hats (bonus if one is a wizard hat).

What you bring to the role:

- You have a completed education (FH, TU - in Software Engineering & Management, Computer Science / Engineering, UX Design, Information, any commercial education or similar) and a high technical affinity.
- You gained ~2-5 years relevant experience (Product Management, Business Analyst, Consulting, Product owner).
- You are affine for software development processes and procedures and eager to learn new tools and approaches (JIRA, Confluence, Figma, etc.) – that's a nice to have.
- You are strongly interested in new technologies, development, process approaches, digital products and understand both business and technical perspectives. You don't wait for instructions but seek them out.
- You are flexible - in general and in your mind (i.e. always able to adapt quickly to new things, switch perspectives).
- You are curious, willing to learn, able to challenge personal assumptions and comfortable with ambiguity
- You are an adaptable, proactive team player, actively listen and suggest with structured solution-oriented ideas.
- You communicate complex ideas strong, clearly, target- and solution-oriented in English (German is a big plus)
- You really enjoy interacting with customers / colleagues and aim to inspire them. Your ability to engage with stakeholders from diverse departments is admirable. You think holistically, sustainable and strategically.
- You work analytically, self-responsibly and independently but also utilize your network and can coordinate.
